Newbury Child and Adolescent Psychology Clinic ADHD and ASD/autism assessment

What does the assessment involve?

Phase 1 – Screening (we initially screen for ADHD and ASD/autism using the following information. If we do not find significant evidence of ADHD or ASD/autism, we will not proceed with the assessment)

 - SNAP-IV (parent report)

 - AQ (child-report - 16+ years)
 - RCADS or GAD7/PHQ9
 - Developmental history form (parent)
2. Teacher questionnaires
 - SNAP (teacher report – ideally 6+ teachers)
 - School information form

Phase 2 – Diagnostic assessment (we will only proceed with this part of the assessment if we find significant evidence of ADHD and ASD/autism during the screening process – if we find evidence of only one condition, we will only recommend proceeding with a full assessment of this profile)

1. Diagnostic assessment of ADHD (parent and child, 90 mins)
2. Developmental history interview (parent, 120 mins)
3. ADOS – assessment of ASD (child, 60 minutes)
4. Qb check - computerised assessment of ADHD (child, 30 mins)
5. School observation (observation of child in classroom) and teacher interview (11+ years)
6. Collation of other school data
7. Comprehensive report of assessment findings
8. Online meeting to discuss findings

How much does the assessment cost?

The cost of the screening phase is £270. The cost of the full assessment (including screening) is £2350. This is payable via BACS before we release the final report.

What interventions do you offer for children with ADHD and ASD/autism?

If your child meets the diagnostic criteria for ADHD and ASD/autism, we are able to offer therapeutic sessions to support your child. We are also able to recommend local clinics who can provide a medication consultation if you/your child are keen to consider medication for ADHD. We can also offer parent consultation sessions and can provide input/liaison with your child's school. There are additional charges for these services and there may be a wait.
